Can you borrow money with a secured credit card? An unrestricted credit card is a credit card that doesn't have a credit limit. A secured credit card, however, will limit the amount of money you can spend on a certain basis. If you apply for an unsecured credit card, you have the chance to borrow as much as you want. A credit card gives you the opportunity to borrow money. A credit card can often be thought of as a loan with a specific interest rate. If you're not ready to pay for the full charge of the loan, pay a little bit each month for the balance. Retail credit cards differ from other types of credit in that they allow you to withdraw money in the form of cash or check. If you're not able to pay your full balance off on the due date, interest charges will be added to your account. These programs usually require you to make a fixed monthly payment for a period of time. Payday advances in North Carolina may be a bit of a mystery to some North Carolinians.
